

Principal, Graduates, Coeds to Attend Dawson Day

McGill-Queens To Mark Season's Football Opening

Gov.-General In Grandstand For 1st Game

By NORM WOLFE

The McGill grid team will be playing before a distinguished audience tomorrow afternoon when they take on the Galloping Gaels from Kingston in the first game of the intercollegiate season. For Canada's Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, along with a host of McGill graduates here to celebrate the 125th anniversary of the founding of the University, will be viewing the proceedings.

An outstanding program has been arranged to make the occasion a memorable one. At 2 p.m. sharp, onlookers will be treated to a six-ring athletic demonstration featuring exhibitions in boxing, gymnastics, wrestling, weightlifting, judo, and fencing.

At half time in the football contest, a mile relay race will be run between the Dominion championship McGill quartet and the runner-up Toronto West End YMCA four. Concurrent with this will be a golf-archery competition that promises to be first class entertainment. And to top the whole show off the McGill and Queens bands and cheerleaders will add the necessary college touch.

The main feature will be the McGill-Queens football clash. Both squads have yet to taste stiff opposition this year, and tomorrow's game should provide the criterion by which their relative chances in the 1946 title hunt may be judged.

The Tricolor from Kingston is the dark horse in this year's intercollegiate race. Boasting a new mentor, Doug Monson, who coached at the University of Illinois before the war, the Gaels have lined up a squad that is out to regain Queen's former prestige in Canadian football circles.

The Ontario lads will present a huge team, with an average weight of 196 pounds on the line, 187 in the backfield. This means an average advantage of 15 pounds per man over the Red and White forward wall. The Tricolor squad is built around a few new outstanding acquisitions like Al Lenard, triple-threat back, who formerly starred for the Hamilton Tigers, Al Misener, 265 pound middle who played with Sarnia Imperials, Dave (Continued on Page 4.)

TORCH PARADE FILLS STADIUM

Students Pledge Full Support At Rally

By AL GOLD.

If ever McGill's stalwart footballers had any doubts about student support, it was quickly dispelled by last night's vociferous rally. Swelled by Dawsonites and led by McGill's own band, a parade of cheering students a block long and eight deep marched up to the Molson Stadium, carrying lighted torches and singing "Change McGill." (What? Treason?)

As they circled the track, they were greeted by the R.M.R. Bugle Band. From there on, the hard work and fine organization of the Red Wing Society were quickly apparent.

After a few short speeches by Doug Kerr and Alex Ross asking for moral support for Saturday's game, which from the reaction of the audience seemed not in vain, a short exhibition game was played by the intermediate Q.R.F. and Collegiate teams.

This was followed by two motorcycle races with four riders of the Verdun Motorcycle Club providing the thrills as they sped around the track at an average of 36 m.p.h. Just to show the folks that they were not holding back, one of the entries piled up against the west end wall, but was able to walk away unscathed.

Thoroughly exhausted from the tension of the excitement, there was a sigh of relief (?) from the boys and girls as the lights were turned out for Hay Finley's illuminated Indian club display. Then fireworks stated. No, it was not a protest from the co-ed's chaperones, but something on a much higher level.

In the meantime, the Red Wings on the Scarlet Key played a large "M" in the centre of the field with their torches held high. All in all, it was a fine tribute to loyalty and sportsmanship which could not fail to provide the spirit before the spirits of the Grads' smoker held later in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium.

Students' Council Nominations Received

Nine nominations for the various posts of faculty representatives to the Students' Executive Council have been received by Mr. G. H. Fletcher, nomination receiving officer, it was announced yesterday. Hugh F. Bonnell, Guy R. Corbiero, and Harry R. Shkurnik are the three candidates for the Dental Faculty's position on the Executive Council, while George Schneider, Geoffrey W. Ince, and Leonard Starkey will contest the Engineering faculty position.

Barbara Goodwin, the only candidate submitted by the faculty of Music, will be elected by acclamation.

Candidates from R.V.C. are Joan Mason and Dorothy Peterson. Voting in all faculties will take place on Friday, October 11, and an announcement covering the arrangements for balloting will be issued shortly.

Grad Program Offers Trips, Talks, Music

There are still three carefully planned days left of the 125th Anniversary Victory Reunion.

Dr. F. Cyril James, Principal and Vice-Chancellor will lecture on "Twenty Years of Post War Reconstruction," Friday at 12.00 a.m. in Moyle Hall. Transportation has been arranged to take graduates to Dawson College on Friday, where a reception, entertainment and tours have been planned. Professor H. N. Fieldhouse will give an address entitled "Russia and the West" at 8.30 p.m., Friday in Moyle Hall. For graduates interested in Music there will be a Musicales in the Faculty Club also at 8.30 p.m., Friday.

Saturday at 11.00 a.m. Convocation will be held in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium. The Governor-General will be in attendance. More tickets have been sold for the football game in Molson Stadium at 2.15 p.m., Saturday when McGill meets Queen's, than for any other event of the Reunion. Immediately after the game there will be a Tea Dance in the Gymnasium. Viscount Alexander will be Guest of Honour at the dinner to be held at 7.15 p.m. Saturday in the Windsor Hotel.

Reverend Dr. G. G. P. Kilpatrick D.S.O., will conduct the Dedication Service on Sunday, October 6th, at 11.00 a.m., prior to the presentation and laying of the Corner Stone of the McGill War Memorial by the Governor-General.

Annual Fall Convocation Followed By Investiture

Guests To Lay War Memorial Corner Stone

The official Visitor to McGill University, Viscount Alexander of Tunis and of Errigal, Governor-General of Canada, will officiate at two university events this weekend.

On Saturday October 5, the Governor-General will be present at the annual fall convocation, when 60 students will graduate. Viscount Alexander will give a brief address, and following the conferring of degrees, will hold an investiture, when one staff member, and several McGill students, will be decorated for gallantry during the past war.

At Molson Stadium Saturday afternoon there will be a special viceroyal box, for the Governor-General and Lady Alexander, and their party.

LAYS CORNER STONE
On Sunday October 6, the Governor-General will lay the corner stone of the McGill war memorial rink-auditorium and swimming-

SCHOLARSHIPS
Owing to the crowded programme the Governor-General has on Saturday, it will not be possible to present the Scholarship Winners at the Fall Convocation that morning.

For some years past, winners of scholarships have been presented to the Chancellor or Vice-Chancellor at the regular Fall Convocation, but this takes considerable time, and Saturday's Convocation must end in time for the Governor-General to fulfill his other engagements, and arrive at the Football Game at 2.25 p.m. The lists of the scholarship winners will, however, be printed in the programme.

Next of kin and relatives of these 600 are invited by the university to attend, and are especially welcomed. No tickets are necessary.

HONORARY DEGREES
At the ceremony scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday, in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium, Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill, will confer the degrees in course. He will also confer honorary degrees upon Sir Hector Hetherington, principal and vice-chancellor of the University of Glasgow, the university from which James McGill graduated; Hon. Ray Atherton, United States Ambassador to Canada; Dr. T. F. Cotton, a McGill graduate who is now a distinguished heart-specialist residing in London, England; and R. C. Little Woman Can't Talk Back! Bell Demonstrates Radiophone

By MARY HOWELL
In the very near future Montreal citizens may be able to phone their wives up from the car and tell her the old one about being kept late at the office. Furthermore if they keep their finger on the little black button she won't be able to talk back.

All this and more will be made possible when the Bell Telephone Company inaugurates their radiophone system early in 1947. The Bell demonstrated this remarkable invention on the campus this afternoon for the benefit of the graduates attending the reunion. The cradle type, frequency modulation phone is installed on the

Historical Box To Be Sealed In Memorial

Governor General Lord Alexander of Tunis will lay the corner stone at McGill's war memorial, a rink auditorium; at a special ceremony and dedication service on Sunday morning, October 6 at 11 a.m.

Some three thousand McGill graduates from all over Canada, United States, Newfoundland, and Great Britain will be present to witness the placing of a sealed copper box under the corner stone of the memorial.

This box will contain copies of the McGill Honour Rolls for the two Great Wars, a list of the members of the McGill War Memorial Campaign Committee, and the members of the Graduates' Society of McGill University Board of Directors, copies of local newspapers—The Montreal Daily Star, The Gazette, La Presse, and last year's convocation issue of The McGill Daily.

Besides these a copy of the McGill News and the McGill Annual 1946 together with copies of the 1945 and 1946 campaign folders and a bound copy of the University Calendar and a copy of McGill Students' Handbook will be enclosed.

Included in the box are currency and bills up to $100, a record of (Continued on Page 4.)

Professors Commute To Dawson College

Due to the crowded campus faculty and students are undergoing inconveniences. The university faculty, however, is cooperating to the utmost in helping solve some of the difficulties.

Dr. F. Cyril James, Principal of the University is commuting to Dawson to teach a course in economics. Dr. James is an expert in the field of money and banking and has written a book on this subject of economic importance.

The Dean of the faculty of Arts and Science, Dr. Cyrus MacMillan, is also commuting to teach English 2 to the many first year students now at Dawson, while Professor Launay will teach French.

Travelling to St. John also will be Professor N. B. McLean, of the Mathematics department, while Professor Gillson, Principal of Dawson, not only teaches on the St. John's campus but travels in to the city to teach students registered for his courses here.

McGill to Give 59 Diplomas At Exercises

Fifty-nine McGill students are receiving degrees in three of the University's undergraduate faculties, and from her Graduate school. They will be awarded their diplomas tomorrow at the 125th anniversary Founder's Day Convocation.

Movies Dances Are Scheduled

TICKETS ON SALE

Special Buses, Train Provided for Trip

Tonight is the night when, at about 5 p.m., special buses will unload upon the Dawson campus a number of bundles of its scarcest commodity, namely COEDS.

Scheduled to leave at 3.30 p.m. on a special train from Windsor station the girls will arrive at the same time as members of the faculty, including Dr. James and graduates.

Immediately after their arrival the official party will be taken on a tour of the campus, following which there will be a brief period for reception of the new students at Dawson by Dr. James, then, at 5 p.m. there will be "open house".

OPEN HOUSE
The open house program includes a supper served in the mess, movies in the theatre and an athletics display. Then from 7.30 till 11.30 dancing will take place to the strains of the Westernaires. This youthful organization is comprised for the most part of students and has received much favourable comment on its playing at the Gym last Saturday.

SPECIAL TRAIN
Following the dance the girls will be returned to town on a special train, which, it is emphasized, will arrive back in Montreal at a "respectable hour". The train will stop at Montreal West and Westmount stations for the convenience of those living in the west end of town.

The Dawson Day Committee, under the leadership of Harvey Walford, is sparing no time or expense to make the affair one of the biggest and most successful of Freshman Week. Rae Hunter is in charge of ticket sales to the coeds, price 50 cents, which covers the entire cost of transportation to Dawson. All other entertainment is free.

The whole program has been arranged not only as a feature of Freshman Week to give the girls from Montreal a chance to meet the Dawson students and see the St. John's campus but also to give the graduates a glimpse of undergraduate life. It will take the form (Continued on Page 2.)

Lectures Cancelled

All Lectures and laboratory periods throughout the University on Saturday, the 5th of October, are cancelled, so that students and staff may attend the Convocation.

Hanratty at Vets' Meeting

At a special meeting called by the Student Veterans' Society in the McGill Union last night, T. E. Hanratty, president of the Veterans' Housing League of Ottawa, outlined briefly the efforts of the League to house veterans in need of accommodation. He defended his action in leading Ottawa veterans in taking over unoccupied government buildings after a series of rallies and open meetings had failed to bring satisfactory action from federal or civic officials.

"The government may claim that there was valuable equipment in one of the buildings occupied, but they must not forget that Canadian men, women and children are much more valuable to the country," he stated.

Following Mr. Hanratty's address, John Switzman, Housing Director of the Vets' Society, introduced five resolutions to the 50 or so veterans in attendance.

Founder's Day, 1946

Founder's Day, 1946, marks the 125th anniversary of the granting of the charter to the University, and charts yet another step in the long and wonderful history of McGill. Many are the men and women who have come and gone through her halls since they were first opened in 1821, and with each the stature and prestige of the university has grown tremendously until now she stands high in the ranks of institutions of learning over this continent and throughout the world.

This year, we must not only pause to remember James McGill, to whom we owe so much, but we must reflect, too, on those hundreds and thousands of McGill students and graduates who performed so heroic a task in the world wars which have marred this century. That the distinguished Visitor, Lord Alexander, is to lay the cornerstone for the War Memorial building Sunday morning is an indication that we will not soon forget our fellows who gave their all so that we and students everywhere may be able to pursue our endeavors for civilization and humanity in an atmosphere of freedom and progress.

Once again McGill is showing the way in setting up a useful memorial in tribute to those who died in World War II. Past attempts have too often resulted in shrines which soon became relics. The proposed auditorium rink will be both a suitable commemoration and a valuable addition to the campus, wherein students and graduates may play and think in the manner those to whom it will be dedicated would wish them to. Truly, as Principal James said in his message to the Graduates Reunion luncheon meeting yesterday, "May I... express the hope that they (the War Memorial buildings) may be symbolic of more than the deep spirit of gratitude to those to whom they are a tribute? They express the interest of graduates in undergraduates, and emphasize the ties that bind each one of you to the University of which you were made members in the days of your youth."

May we also express pleasure in the fortunate choice of recipients of honorary degrees at tomorrow morning's Convocation. Seldom we find a group of men with such varied fields of endeavor who collectively have rendered distinguished public service of a nature as have those four. The international scope of the University is accentuated by those honored, who link Scotland, the United States and Canada.

On this Founder's Day it is only fitting that a man such as Sir Hector Hetherington, principal and vice-chancellor of James McGill's old university, be awarded a degree for his many services to his fellow-men. The effort of Hon. Ray Atherton, Dr. Cotton and Mr. Fetherstonhaugh, as well, deserve such tribute and it is with great pleasure that we welcome them into the ranks of the University's graduates and into the family of McGill men and women.

THE GRADUATES RETURN

By John McDonald

(Editor-in-Chief, McGill Daily, '36-'38.)

In the old days we had to turn out at least one editorial every week day. You could usually intimidate some night editor into doing one, and sometimes the carrot method would bring forth some effort from a member of the Managing Board, but by and large the poor old Editor himself had to write about 500 words per diem. It was always a question of subject—or even more difficult the treatment to be accorded the obvious subject.

In such a vein we wrestled with the annual charities appeal, the annual graduates dinner, the annual convocation—often resorting to the old DAILY files for inspiration—and even whole paragraphs and yes, shame on us, even whole editorials. With this infamous background which is well known to all DAILY editors it was rather a shock to be faced with the proposition of producing yet another piece for these pages.

Yet the job is not so bad this time. We have the obvious subject, and we have the obvious conclusion and even the middle part—the meat in the sandwich is pretty tasty. "WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH OLD MCGILL?" As we look around and see all the student residences, the new cyclotron, and the other physical improvements, particularly the gym, we are apt to be impressed. As we look at the picture a little more closely we see the largest student body in the history of the University and are further impressed—the faculty looks good too. McGill's reputation is even wider than heretofore and just as brilliant.

But we must not let a sentimental haze blind us. There are still many things need before we can regard McGill as the complete university we want and need. We are on the road to realization in some respects. We will, in due course have the Rink. We are building up our reputation in fields heretofore neglected. But McGill still needs a good substantial endowment. McGill needs more scholarships and McGill needs higher pay for the members of the Faculty. These things will come in time if those of us—the graduates of today and the graduates of tomorrow—continue to support our Alma Mater.

But the very success of the present reunion is indicative of the trend and we can therefore rest assured that those things which we need but have not got, will in due course be forthcoming.

Truly, therefore, can we say in answer to our somewhat rhetorical question "SHE'S ALL RIGHT, OH YES YOU BET."

Time and Tide

By MILES GORDON

(The following tribute to "Finnie" Fletcher was written for the Daily by McGill graduate Miles Gordon, Editor-in-Chief, McGill Daily, '25-'26.)

Countless graduates will appreciate and endorse the gesture of the past presidents of the Students' Society who tonight are paying tribute to G. H. ("Finnie") Fletcher at a dinner in the Faculty Club. To graduates of the past 23 years Finnie and his immortal and inimitable laugh have become a part of the McGill tradition. Many, upon their return to Montreal, make their first, if not their only, McGill visit to him. At re-unions in far-off places he is invariably remembered in their reminiscences. It would be interesting to know in how many distant places and under how many strange circumstances, attempts have been made to imitate that laugh. The attempts could never be quite successful as perfect mimicry, but the memories they have evoked have added to the gaiety of many gatherings.

Born near Melbourne in Western Ontario in the 80's, young Gil Fletcher attended the Glenora High School. After a brief spell of school-teaching, he entered McGill in the Class of 1911—and in his Freshman year he became "Finnie" (originally "Phineas"). The reason for the name will of course be obvious to all who remember their English Literature! As soon as the professor mentioned the names of the dramatists Giles and Phineas Fletcher, Dan Gillmor appropriated the "Phineas" for his classmate. While an undergraduate, Finnie was president of the Sophomore class; he was a soccer and rugby player, and a wrestler. In the First War he trained with the McGill C.O.T.C. and went with the McGill battalion—the 148th—to England where he was commissioned. Upon the disbandment of the 148th he transferred to the 73rd (the third battalion of the Canadian Black Watch) and with them the killed Lieutenant Fletcher served in France.

After his return to Canada, Finnie again taught school for a time, and then in 1923 he became Secretary of the McGill Students' Society. In that position, and as Advertising Manager of the Daily, he has been guide, philosopher and friend to succeeding undergraduate executives. For more than twenty years he has viewed the ups and downs of college life; he has sat through more stormy Council sessions than any one person should be expected to endure, and has survived more DAILY "crises" than he would probably care to remember. Finnie should write his memoirs. They would make interesting reading—yet some of us who now consider ourselves pretty important people might wish he wouldn't. He knows too much about us!

Tonight, as guest of honour of those who were presidents of the Students' Society in the years when he was secretary, he can be sure that, as they pay their tributes, they are truly representing hundreds of their fellow-graduates. All join in the sincere wish that Finnie's famous laugh will continue to be heard through many a year to come.

Fred Wigle

By Douglas Amaron
(Sports Editor McGill Daily '35-'36.)

It was a better winter day and the north wind blowing across the Maas, over the damp Dutch polder land, chilled the hardest Canadians to the marrow.

For several days of the 1945 winter "lull" period an attack had been going in against an insignificant ferry landing known as Kapelscheveer. Polish troops and British troops had tried twice before to dislodge the Germans from this strategic dike-protected spot and had failed. Now it was the Canadians' turn, and foot by foot, through ice, slush and water, and under German machinegun, mortar and artillery fire, they were reducing the garrison.

It was a grim battle, fought by men in white, hooded coveralls to give them camouflage. It was going considerably slower than schedule and was costing heavy casualties on both sides.

Into this fight, for his first test as a battalion commander, came Fred Wigle, the big, warm-hearted McGill graduate whose memory is being honored in a football trophy that will bear his name.

Fred was a tank man at heart, a former brigade major in the 5th Armored Division, later general staff officer first grade in the 4th Armored. But he was a man of action too and when the call came for him to take over the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, an infantry battalion in the 4th Division, he welcomed it with the same enthusiasm that he welcomed McGill-Queen's football game.

We saw Fred on that first day of his new command, the second or third day of the battle. He had just come back from a recon of his forward positions and was mud-spattered and weary but he found time as he always did, to review the battle and chew the fat about his McGill friends.

The Canadians captured Kapelscheveer a day or so later and Fred and his men got a well-deserved rest—a rest they needed for it wasn't long before they were on the move again.

Their next offensive was in the approaches to the Rhine and once again the Argylls, and Fred, were in the thick of it as they fought, first in the gap and then south of the Hochwald where one of the grimmest battles of the war was fought.

After the Rhine was spanned, the fighting was easier for a time and the Argylls moved rapidly north and east towards the Emden-Wilhelmshaven peninsula. They were still moving rapidly as they approached the Kusten canal.

It was mid-April of last year and the Argylls were approaching a little German town called Friesoythe.

The opposition was light and the companies advanced quickly. Fred had stopped briefly with his tank headquarters in a house, pending another move forward, when 50 soldiers were seen approaching the house.

A scout went out to see who the soldiers were and when he failed to return it was realized these men were Germans. Fred organized his 10 to 15 defenders ordering no one to fire unless the Germans fired first.

A gun went off and Fred turned up the stairs to see that his positions there were prepared. He had gone only a few steps when a sniper's bullet, passing through a shell hole in the door, struck him in the back. He died almost instantly.

Had Fred lived to see the end of that fight, he would have been proud of his men.

"The Germans came up to the house and threw grenades through the windows," a lance-corporal who operated a wireless set with one hand and a Tommy gun with the other, related later. "None got inside. The boys did a real job. They were fighting mad after the colonel was killed, and I guess that's why they stuck it."

When relief, summoned by the wireless operator, came, the remnants of the little force were still holding out. Only six of the attacking Germans escaped. The boys say the sniper who shot Fred wasn't among those six.

The McGill men honoured will have their medals pinned on to their uniforms by the famous general while his aide-de-campe, Maj. Gen. H. G. Lelton, C.B.E., M.C., reads the official citations.

This colourful ceremony should be one of the outstanding events of the day. When he made his first official visit to McGill, the Governor-General was awarded an honorary Law degree.

And They All Came Back

By John MacDonald

One hundred and twenty-five years is a long, long time. To some of the students, fresh out of high school, some of the old grads who are wandering around the Campus look as as though they had graduated in the first class of 1821. Well, it's not quite that bad—although there are some pretty old grads around—just who's the oldest hasn't been settled yet and won't be until all the registration cards are in. Some of the grads who look old aren't really old either—they just look old because they have been smoking cigars instead of cigarettes. They are big boys now—out in the world and making good money (in spite of the income tax).

The reunion is a grand thing. Here is a chance to see all the old gang, and the gang who were seniors when you were a freshman and vice versa. The long corridor of time is a great leveller in some ways—you find the man who at college in your day was the Great Big Shot is now a very ordinary person and again vice versa. There are, of course, exceptions and some of the people who were Great Big Shots on the campus away back when are still regarded in their communities as Great Big Shots (or so they think).

It's fun to be back—to see the old crowd who used to play cards on Saturday night and drink beer (when it was a dollar a dozen). It's fun to see the old buildings and a lot of the old faces on the faculty—to visit the old "Daily" mill in the basement—to anticipate the football game, and with it the memories of a hundred others.

Some aren't back because they can't get away. Responsible jobs, distance, the return to civilian life and a thousand reasons are keeping some of us at home. But still, the stay-at-homes are with us too. They are wishing they were here—waiting for the Saturday night broadcast when for a short while they will actually have a common tangible bond with those of us in Montreal. Yes, those who are not here are still with us in spirit. Perhaps they will be able to make it in 1971 for the 150th anniversary party.

And then there are those who will never be with us again to raise their voices in "Hall Alma Mater." These are the lads who, in one of two wars, paid the price of this reunion. They helped to guarantee the kind of world in which such a reunion is possible. They, too, are here with us today. Every one of them is in the heart and mind of a friend who is present—we treasure these memories more than all the other tangible manifestations of the reunion. Of such is the spirit of Old McGill.

Yes, they all came back for the 125th Anniversary.

her Fall Convocation tomorrow. Sir Hector Hetherington, principal and vice-chancellor of Glasgow University, will address the graduates. Hon. Ray Atherton, an American diplomat, is now ambassador to Canada. Dr. Thomas F. Cotton, who obtained his M.D. at McGill, has since distinguished himself as a heart specialist in London. Mr. R. C. Featherstonhaugh is a Montreal writer who has done considerable work for the Graduates' Society.

Alexander, Morrison Lead Large Field of Golfers; Eleven Vie for Honours in Final Round Today

The fight for the Intramural Golf championship was narrowed down to eleven when the first 36 hole qualifying round was completed at Beaconsfield Golf Club yesterday. The eleven qualifying will tee off over the same layout today for another 36 and the low gross of the two-day affair will be crowned champion.

Dave Morrison, golf manager, and Billy Alexander will sport a two stroke lead over their nearest rivals by virtue of their identical 77's turned in yesterday. Alexander is somewhat of a dark-horse as he has an eleven handicap while Morrison's is three. Two strokes behind the leaders with a 79 is Frank Pope, defending champion, while Larry Tarshis and Ralph Johnson are deadlocked for fourth place with 80's. Rounding out the "Big Eleven" are Dorkin, Doscher and Love with 81, and Depew, Haldimand and Nicholson with 82.

Bell-Hall

The special prize for low net will be shared by A. Bell and E. W. Hall who carded 87-19 and 83-15 for equal 69's.

Although the traditional Staff-Student match has been called off this year, those teeing off today will be seeking berths on the four man Intercollegiate team that travels to Kingston on Oct. 12 to face teams from Queen's and Varsity; the latter group being the defending champs who have copped the laurels 10 times in 17 tries.

A large number of yesterday's contestants did not turn in their cards for the second nine as they found the weather too cold to continue in. The cards of the leaders are as follows:

Par Out 444 355 434-36
In 545 343 435-36-72
Alexander out 354 365 524 -37
In 555 444 535-40-77
Morrison out..... 455 354 546-41
In 545 444 334-36-77

The Same Old Raquet

Male and Female Raquet-swingers Rarin' to Go; Co-ed Tourney Underway; Men Commence Today

The Annual McGill Tennis Championships gets under way today with a record 85 entries. Jack Spencer, the defending champion, tops the seeded list. Bob Duford, last year's Intercollegiate titlist, is in the No. 2 slot. Other seeded possible. It is hoped that entries will be made by all classes in all faculties and any information may be obtained from the faculty representatives:

BIOLOGICAL SURVEY

Oh, what a wonderful bird the frog are.
When he stand, he sit almost.
Much hair he ain't got.
Much tail he ain't got neither.
And when he stand,
He sit on what he ain't got almost.
—The Fulcrum.

"Diving stations! Full speed ahead!" shouted the sub captain, spotting a grey bulk. "Here comes that blasted whale a-courting us again!"
—Queen's Journal.

players are as follows: Jim Duff, another strong contender for the Intercollegiate team; 4, Charlie Le-Royer; 5, Breen Marlen; 6, Jim Spencer; 7, Milton MacDowell; 8, Colin Maass. Stern competition is expected for the McMartin trophy and because of the large entry matches MUST be played at the prescribed times or players will be defaulted.

The results of the tournament will be used as a guide in choosing the Intercollegiate team when McGill defends the crown Oct. 21, 22, 23, at the MacTavish Street court. Many Tournaments played during this year will also be used to determine the relative calibre of student players. The possibility of a few dark horses naturally looms large with such a host of players and everyone will be considered when the team will be announced about Oct. 15.

Big Four

Jack Spencer, Bob Duford, Jim Duff, and Jim Spencer are all former members of the Canadian Junior Davis Team. Colin Maass drew much note this summer by being runner-up for the Canadian Junior title. All these, and many more combine to give McGill far and away the strongest array of tennis talent in Canada.

RESULTS

Yesterday's results—Women: M. Duguid defeated J. Mahr, 6-1, 6-3;

The Gael

Here are the thumb-nail sketches of the probable starting line-up of the visiting Galloping Gaels in tomorrow's Intercollegiate opener:

Jim Charters, 6 feet, 205 pounds, will do the snapping for Queen's. Jim comes out of Hamilton and is rated very highly as a centre secondary. This is his first year as a regular.

Ken McDonald, playing inside wing again for the Kingston crew, is a fiery, powerful little fellow, who packs 180 pounds on his 5'8" frame.

Ken Parkinson, 6'1" and tipping the scales at 195 pounds, is slated to take over the other inside position for the Queensmen. Parkinson is very fast and a very good tackler and blocker.

Bob Stevens, captain of this year's Tricolor, comes here with the reputation of being the best middle in Intercollegiate ranks at present. With 210 pounds distributed solidly over 6'5" of body, Bob will cause plenty of concern to opponents both offensively and defensively.

John Milener, erstwhile Sarnia Imperial regular, is a middle with plenty of class and experience. He weighs in at 205 pounds and is 5'11" tall.

Ted Porter will do the kicking

Fred Wigle Memorial Trophy
Given to McGill Athletics Board

The Fred Wigle Memorial Trophy

memory of one of its members, the late Lt.-Col. Frederick Ernest Wigle, D.S.O., O.B.E., B. Com., McGill 1936.

Fred Wigle, who had a distinguished career at McGill and was one of its outstanding athletes of a decade ago, captained the McGill Football team in 1935. He was a valuable member of both the Football and Hockey teams for several years and will be remembered as a hard and clean player whose conduct on the field or on the ice was always characterized by good nature and good sportsmanship.

In early 1941 he was commissioned as a Lieutenant from the McGill C.O.T.C. and after proceeding overseas, rose rapidly to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel which he held when killed in action in Germany on April 12th, 1945, while Commanding Officer of the 1st Battalion of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, at the age of 31. He was thrice awarded military honours for his outstanding gallantry and leadership, having been Mentioned in Despatches, awarded the Distinguished Service Order and created an Officer of the Order of the British Empire.

The trophy is given to the McGill Athletics Board for award each year to the player on the McGill Rugby-Football team who, in the estimation of his fellow team members, has best evidenced good sportsmanship in emulation of the example set by the late Fred Wigle, and a request has been made that this award will take place each year as a ceremony at the Annual Meeting of the McGill Rugby-Football Club.

The trophy is inscribed as follows:

THE FRED WIGLE
MEMORIAL FOOTBALL TROPHY

For annual award to the member of the McGill Football Team who, in the opinion of his fellows, has best displayed the qualities of sportsmanship.

The Intramural Athletics Council has announced that the Intramural Softball League will be organized immediately so that it may be completed in the Gymnasium before basketball gets under way. Faculty representatives are organizing their respective class teams and it is expected that all entries will be in before next Wednesday, Oct. 9th when a meeting is to be held at Mr. Hay Finlay's office to draw up schedule and arrange for other details of the league. The Intramural Softball manager is L. Weingarten who will have charge of the league and he invites all interested and capable officials to see him or Mr. Finlay as soon as brings you Coffee for breakfast

CANADA produces no coffee. Brazil produces no Nickel. But Canadians like coffee for breakfast. Brazil, on the eve of great industrial expansion, is going to need more and more Nickel. So Canada imports Brazilian coffee. Brazil, it is hoped, will import increasing quantities of manufactured goods containing Canadian Nickel. Each product will help to pay for the other.

Canada cannot keep on importing goods from other lands unless Canadian goods are exported.

Less than three per cent of the Nickel produced in Canada is consumed in Canada. So we must continue to export Canadian Nickel if we are to continue to employ thousands of Canadians in the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries, and other thousands who produce the lumber, power, steel, machinery and supplies used by the Canadian Nickel industry.

By constantly expanding the use of Nickel at home and abroad, the Canadian Nickel industry brings additional benefits to Canada and Canadians.

for Queen's this year, while playing at flying wing. He is a good blocking back, who is also adept at running the ends as he participated on the Tricolor track team last year. He measures 6'2" and tips the beam at 190 pounds.

Al Lenard, Windsor's gift to Hamilton Tigers and Queen's University, needs no introduction. He is a triple threat back extraordinary who, before joining the Navy, led the country in scoring while playing for the Tigers. Al is 6'1" in height, weighing 190 pounds.

Roy Fardell, only halfback hold-over of last year's team, is one of the biggest plunging backs in the league. At 6'3" and 210 pounds, Roy is expected to take over from where he left off in '45, when he was rated the outstanding freshman player at Kingston.

Dave Razumak, fleet scabbard, is 5'10", 176 pounds of clever passer and runner. He had a great season with Mahoney Bears last year and has been Queen's most prolific scorer and ground-gainer in their exhibition games this fall.

Jim Crothers, 5'8" and 160 pounds, will again handle the quarterbacking chores for the Kingston club. Though small in size, Jim is a cool customer and a cagey general.

Andy Kneuwasser, outstanding end for the Gaels last year, is 198 pounds and measures 6'2" in his stocking feet, will be the man to watch on the long pass plays. Unless injuries hold him back, Andy appears to be Kingston's nominee for an all-star berth.

Lorne Smith stands 5'1" and weighs 176. Lorne hails from Port Credit and was playing for Balmy Beach before deciding to head for the Frontenac County institution of higher learning. He takes over from Pete King, last year's intercollegiate end.

Razumak, passer and plunger, and Lorne Smith, lanky pass receiver just out of high school.

Aside from these lads, the Kingston crew have several top-notch holdovers in Bob Stevens, middle and team captain, Andy Kneuwasser, Roy Fardell, and Jim Crothers. Playing without Lenard, the Queens squad knocked off Loyola 36-11 last week, the same team McGill trimmed 48-6. But scores are no means of comparison and Coach Doug Kerr has his charges all set to expect a hard-hitting, fast-breaking squad wearing the Tricolor uniform.

Bond, of the Superior Court of Montreal, was to have been honored this year by the award of a Doctor of Laws degree (honoris causa), but illness will prevent the Chief Justice from attending the ceremony.

Sir Hector Hetherington will deliver the convocation address.

DVA Counsellor To Visit Dawson

A counsellor from the Department of Veterans Affairs will visit Dawson College next Wednesday (October 9), to straighten out problems affecting students at the St. Johns campus, it was announced yesterday by E. Clifford Knowles, Dawson student counsellor.
In his announcement Mr. Knowles stressed the importance of all students not previously counselled by DVA taking this opportunity of so doing, as failure may mean confusion in the issuing of cheques.

CATHEDRAL HOLDS NEW 9:30 SERVICE

This Sunday, October 6th, will see the inauguration of a new service in the programme of Christ Church Cathedral. Held at 9:30 a.m. each Sunday, this service will be one of Holy Communion with a short address and music, of forty-five minutes duration.
The new hour of service is designed to benefit many who find it difficult to attend the earlier service at 8 a.m., and also it is expected to be more convenient for those who find the 11 a.m. hour of worship comes too late in the day.

Autumn! Wonderful Autumn... the campus thronging with activity... visiting football teams blowing into town amid band music and cheering grandstands. Great to be alive and part of this spirited college crowd! Great to know that just down the street from the campus is big, stalwart EATON'S with oodles of the kind of clothes you want to see you through a morning's lecture or an evening of fun.
